200 years of village cricket

By Rachel Gorman
rachel.gorman@nottinghampost.com

IT'S funny to think when the club first formed, Napoleon was fighting in the Battle of Waterloo," says Keyworth Cricket Club chairman Geoff Baker.

This year, the club, based at Recovery Field, is celebrating its 200th anniversary – and to mark the occasion members have produced a book and a film documenting the club's legacy.

The film will premiere at their clubhouse, in Platt Lane, at 7pm next Friday and the night will also mark the launch of a year-long programme of celebrations.

Mr Baker has been a member of the club since 1985 and stayed an active player even when he moved to London.

The 44-year-old said: "We may not be the best club in the county but we aspire to be the closest one."

"We're not bothered about paying players and being the best. Yes, it's nice to win and, yes, we play to win, but that's not the focus. We're not bothered if a youngster is good at cricket or doesn't know how to hold a bat; participation is key."

"The look on a child's face when they make any kind of progress or contribution, in whatever level, is what all the coaches thrive off."

"We play for fun and bring together people from the local community as a place to relax and enjoy themselves."

In the past ten years, the club has expanded from a couple of men's teams to seven junior sides, three men's teams and a girls' team.

When each player starts, he or she is given an individual number, and Mr Baker told the Post the club now issued numbers in the 800s.

Club president Barry Baker said of the anniversary launch night: "A lot of hard work has been going on behind the scenes in preparation for the night."

"It should be a really good club evening and start to the season ahead."

The club will also be hosting a weekend from Friday, June 12, to Sunday, June 14.

Faith and borough councillor Sam Rowe congratulated the club on reaching its 200th anniversary "in such an excellent state of health" and described it as "a central part of our community".

A BUNNY OLD GAME

The first reference to cricket being played in Keyworth can be found in the June 15, 1815, issue of the Nottingham Review.

Keyworth defeated neighbouring village Bunny in a two innings match played on Tuesday, June 13. Keyworth scored 24 and 81 and Bunny 95 and 35.

The village has produced 40 professional players and coaches, including Dick Attewell, who is locally said to have bowled the first googly, although the credit for this is officially given to Bernard Bosanquet.

Q&A

Interviewed in 60 seconds

GEOFF BAKER

Chairman, Keyworth Cricket Club

Q What does your role as chairman of Keyworth Cricket Club involve?

A Firstly, I'm a poor, aging player, a kids coach and then I have to chair committees, where we talk about how to run the club. I coach the under-9s, 10-15s and 17-19s and then generally I go straight to chairing a meeting.

Q How long have you been involved with the club, and what has kept you there?

A My involvement began as a player back in 1988. I've since moved away to work in London for 20 years, and I played in a couple of clubs down there, but I have always been involved with Keyworth. When I moved to London, I started helping out with organisation and became vice-president, as well as playing occasionally and helping out with events. For some cricket clubs, it is all about winning the league or winning matches, but at Keyworth, the whole ethos is really to work together, play sports and generally just come together and have a good time.

Q How does the club help children get into cricket and keep them interested, as well as their parents?

A Cricket is a fantastic game for developing physical and social confidence in children. We have kids who come here and are really quiet and it's such a buzz to see them gaining confidence. Just through playing sport. For adults, cricket can be an interesting game when your child is battling, but maybe not so at other times when we like to give them a place where the parents can have a drink and a chat with other parents.

Q Do you have any favourite memories during your time at the club that epitomise what it means to you?

A To be honest, my favourite memory at the club doesn't me. My brother, Rob, is a spin bowler and one game the batsman bet him for six. Rob said "I then bowled a really slow ball, but the batsman tried to smash it out of the ground and had by the time the ball got to him, it trickled past him and hit the stumps and bowled him. That says it up for me, because we like to have a good time while playing."
